My Studio Update

Returning to my art studio after the family-related trip feels like a homecoming, a return to the place where I feel most myself and most inspired. As I step back into my art studio, I feel a sense of comfort and familiarity wash over me. The space is filled with the sights and smells I know so well. I am ready to paint again, but first studio cleanup... chores before creativity. ;-)

LAST MONTH HIGHLIGHTS

IT WAS A BUSY MONTH

The past month was incredibly exciting and filled with stimulating art events, such as shows and fundraisers. I'm looking forward to seeing which venues have inspiring activities in store for the upcoming month.

Shape and Soul

CARPINTERIA ART CENTER

One of my prized paintings, "Marionette," was displayed at the prestigious Shape and Soul Exhibit at the Carpinteria Art Center. Although I could not attend the opening reception, I had the chance to visit the exhibit later. It was a brilliantly curated show showcasing some of the region's finest artworks.

I'm honored to have been selected to join the Santa Barbara Museum of Art Women's Board for their 2023 signature fundraising event at Rockwood Women's Club. All proceeds support the museum's exhibition and education programming; My "Mission San Miguel" drawing found a new home. Thanks for your generous contributions; they help art and artists thrive.
